I oppose extending trading hours even further. As a family member of someone in retail I know the many times "working" has prevented our family being together to celebrate family events or times of respect for those we have lost with the passing of time. The family being together intact is so important for emotional and mental well being. I wonder how we would have survived had more than 1 member of the family been in retail and as a family we had not made conscience efforts to overcome this issue and in particular support the person who had to "work" and so was unable to share and grieve in the company of family.
