im totally against any extended retail hours. I feel this is greed from businesses! it will take away more family time, personal time and have a bigger lack of work life balance. Christmas day good friday are both days meant to be with family whether from a biblical or moral view.. the pressure it will put on families to be open for trade is not fair on anyone. I bet the big head honchos from every business, government or state council will NOT give up there family time and work in those days. Its already insulting, disrespectful and and plain not nice that we open half day on ANZAC DAY! I will not work on any of these days.. I and every body can live a day with shops and businesses closed for a day. Crickeys we once lived with shops being closed for days and days at a time with Christmas and Easter public holidays. even back when shops were not open ! sundays. It is just greed from government and big businesses to once again make money from the every day hard work family member/ community member..
