I do not trust any politician with regard to roads! We are already paying more than enough through, registration fees,rates, petrol, & indirect taxes towards roads,with out being taxed again. Roads are on public land,not on privately owned land. Roads are an essential publicly owned asset for Australian citizens. Taxing us again by tolls, is unconstitutional.

This is an atrocious idea. I do not for one moment believe that it wont end up costing the average motorist more. It will intrude on the freedom of everyday Australians to move about at will in the manner that best suits them by introducing a cost factor which will effect those worse off more than those with greater finances . This is an example of big brother gone wild suggested I imagine by an academic who is simply out of touch with the lives of ordinary Australians. I dont believe that the average motorist will be prepared to have a bar of it. This ridiculous idea should be scrapped before even giving it any consideration.
